Amid cheers for Cronin, whose influence with the foreign element is strong, the strikers were informed that the boilermakers had decided to abandon their strike and that the employes of the General Chemical Company and the Vacuum Oil Company—neither of whom have been on strike, but simply intimidated—were about to return.

Alexander Simpson a Jersey City lawyer, demanded yesterday a hearing for the thirty guards taken from the Tide Water plant on Sunday. He represents the men and contends their constitutional rights have been violated. Recorder Cain fixed this morning as the time when the cases will come up. The guards are charged with inciting to riot, but this charge may be changed to homicide.

Several conferences between the labor leaders and representatives of various paper companies which employ machinists will be held at the Mariborough Hotel to-day. Mr. Keppier said that he would divide his time between New York, Plainfield and Philadelphia during the next few days, conferring with leaders and sizing up the general labor situation.

James J. McEntee and Edward Ago, strike organizers of the central committee of the International Association, took part in the conference at the Prince George Hotel yesterday. Union men interpreted this as an indication that a strike would be called.

While the power of calling strikes is wested in the executive board of the manual board of the association at Washington, Mr. Keppler intimated last night that he had been empowered to order a strike.

Mylic the executive board of the association at Washington, Mr. Keppler intimated last night that he had been empowered to order a strike any time, subject to the approval of local officials of the union. Le said that non-union men were eager to take advantage of this opportunity to secure a raise in wages and a reduction in working hours, and had pledged their support in any movement launched with that end in view.
